

Protecting and managing our natural assets

ICS is a software development company specialising in web-based enterprise products.

We have deep expertise in environmental management products, helping organisations manage the sustainable use of National Parks – terrestrial and marine – and their cultural and natural heritage values.

ICS has many national clients, and on the back of significant international wins, we are rapidly expanding our workforce in the following area:

Experienced Developers - ICS needs tertiary qualified developers with at least 5 years commercial experience. You will require experience in object-oriented languages and server-side web development, particularly using .NET 2.0, XML technologies and SQL competency.

ICS is located on the Hobart waterfront in Tasmania. Some interstate and international travel may be required.

Remuneration will be based on capability and experience, with great opportunities for advancement.
